

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

VIII. Extract from the Registers of the Philosophical Society at Oxford, October 7. 1684. Concerning a Woman who voided the Bones of a Fætus, above the Os Pubis, and by other extraordinary ways.

MArgaret Parry of the Parish of Kintbury in Berkshire, in the Year 1668. was delivered of a Child, she continued indifferently well Two or Three Days after her Delivery; then new Pains came upon her, and for Three Weeks together there came from her daily some Quantity of Corruption, with Pieces of Flesh and Skin; and she continued dangerously ill for about Eight Weeks, at the end of which time she was relieved, as is supposed by taking a Potion which was prescribed her; after Two Years she began to breed again, had Three Children in the Three Years following, all which were drawn from her by Violence; during her lying in with the last of these Three Children, some Bones of a Fætus came from her, after this several other Bones came away with her Catamenia, and several (amongst which were divers parts of the Skull, and some of the larger Bones of the Body of a Fætus) work'd their way by degrees through the Flesh above the Os Pubis.

The Woman is now alive (October 1684.) and in Health; all the Children were born perfect.